

7-18-61

UM 13B-2

VII

This is a black and white aerial photograph of a forested area. The terrain is uneven, with various shades of gray representing different vegetation densities and topography. A network of thin, light-colored lines, likely roads or paths, crisscrosses the landscape. In the center of the image, the Roman numeral 'VII' is handwritten in a dark ink. The overall texture is grainy, characteristic of an aerial photograph from the early 1960s.